Mark is a principal with three decades of experience in healthcare planning and design and is skilled at creating design solutions for elaborate programs. He believes in balancing operations, technology, and patient-centered care models to create an environment that best supports both patients and providers. His approach has resulted in many long-lasting client relationships.

Mark's experience includes serving as principal and project leader for new facilities and expansions and renovations at various healthcare institutions spanning healthcare design aspects. His resume includes surgery and ICU services, cardiac care, cancer care, rehabilitation, behavioral health, and radiology services. Mark is recognized in the industry for his strong management skills and ability to deliver high-quality designs that meet his clients' needs. He was named a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Architects and served as its president in 2016. He was also chair of the AIA Chicago Healthcare Knowledge Community.
